Mayflower Pilgrims Charged With Being First U. S. Bolsheviks

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The Pilgrim Fathers were ignorant and incompetent. They established a regime more cruel than the Spanish Inquisition, in which their governor had more autocratic power than the King of England.

They failed utterly in the religious life they sought to maintain. They had no influence upon the history of the country, save to contribute to the national weakness of free thinking. Their theory of the separation of Church and State led to the menace of Bolshevism today.

CHARGES AGAINST SETTLERS.

These are a few of the charges made against the first settlers of New England by the Rev. Father Joseph H. MacMahon in a lecture at Delmonico's.

Father MacMahon took issue with Professor Usher, who has recently published a history of the Pilgrim Fathers, which, it was charged, deals lightly with the failings of the founders and overemphasizes their importance in American history.

NO CREDIT FOR HARDSHIPS.

Even their hardships did not redound to their glory, according to him. The reason was said, was because they were too stubborn to eat the lobsters and game with which the place abounded.

"That's the Englishman of it," he said. "They had been brought up on roast beef and mutton and wheat bread and they declined to eat the fish and game and Indian corn at hand. You know we tried during the war to teach the English people the use of corn and we didn't succeed. You see the characteristic persists."

Some of the other failings laid up to the Pilgrims by the speaker were: There were just as many slackers and shirkers among them as among other groups of human beings, so that the communistic experiment with which they began had to be abandoned and private property established.

They had not even squatter rights to the land on which they settled, and got themselves into innumerable legal difficulties with the crown.

COMPLAINT AGAINST "SINS."

The only reason they did not stain their pages with persecution of the witches similar to that of Salem, was the accident that only two witches showed up in their colony.

In spite of the severity of their punishment and the espionage system with which they safeguarded the morality of the colony, in 1642 Governor

Bradford himself complained against the "sundry notorious sins" which had broken out, complaining particularly of "drunkenness and uncleanness."

"On the religious side they failed utterly," Father MacMahon concluded. "They rejected not only the Established Church of England, but also the fundamental principles of religion. They destroyed the Holy Trinity and laid the foundation for the Unitarianism which later swept New England. For many years they lived without a minister, although they had to call in a minister to observe some form of public worship."

"They laid open the way for the anarchistic thinking of today, because they destroyed all spiritual authority. Their doctrine of the separation of church and state is the logical preparation for Bolshevism. Our effort today is to undo the effect of the Pilgrim idea, which has permeated the country."

NEWS OF ROCKVILLE AND REST OF COUNTY

ROCKVILLE, Nov. 13.—James Dallas Young, aged seventy-six years, is dead at his home near Damascus. He had been ill about ten days of pneumonia. Surviving him are three daughters and a son. They are Mrs. John Bates, of Newark, N. J.; Mrs. Mae Burdette, of West Chester, Pa.; Mrs. James Burdette, of Gaithersburg, and Weston Young, of Washington. He also leaves two sisters—Mrs. Miranda Hardy, of Carroll county, and Mrs. James Mullins, of Damascus.

The fall meeting of public school teachers of Montgomery county was held here Saturday and was attended by about one hundred and fifty teachers. Prof. Edwin W. Broome, county superintendent of schools, was in charge. The principal address was delivered by Miss Fox, of the United States Bureau of Education. Trustees of the county also met Saturday.

The Rev. Millard F. Minnick, rector of Christ Episcopal Church, officiated at the marriage here Saturday of Miss Ellie Mashover and James R. Hurst, both of Washington.
